

Join us on November 19th, 2009 for the National Day of Mourning. This is a day to remember the lives of Native Americans who were lost to disease, war, and displacement. It is a day to reflect on the impact of colonization and to work towards a more just and equitable future for all.

Event Details
 Date: November 19, 2009
 Time: 10:00 AM - 4:00 PM
 Location: National Mall, Washington, DC

Registration
 Free admission
 Registration required
 Register here

Event Description
 The National Day of Mourning is a day to remember the lives of Native Americans who were lost to disease, war, and displacement. It is a day to reflect on the impact of colonization and to work towards a more just and equitable future for all.

More Information

For more information about the National Day of Mourning, please visit our website at www.nationaldayofmourning.org. We will have a variety of activities, including music, dance, and storytelling. We will also have a display of Native American artifacts and a chance to learn about the history of Native Americans in the United States.

Share this event
 Facebook | Twitter | Email