

QUESTION: How does the nervous system control the body?

ANSWER: The nervous system controls the body by sending electrical signals to muscles and glands.

QUESTION: What are the main parts of the nervous system?

QUESTION: How do neurons work?

QUESTION: How does the nervous system control the body's movements?

1. The brain sends signals to the muscles.

2. The muscles contract and relax, causing movement.

3. The brain receives feedback from the muscles and adjusts the signals.

4. This process repeats continuously to control movement.

QUESTION: How does the nervous system control the body's internal organs?

QUESTION: How does the nervous system control the body's temperature?